STAR INN, AYR.

WILLIAM DUNN returns his most grateful thanks to his numerous Friends in particular, and to the Public in general, for the many favours he has experienced from them during the space of fifteen years he has been in business in Ayr, formerly in the King's Arms Inn, and for these three years past in the STAR.

W. DUNN observes, that a private combination has lately been entered into by certain Innkeepers on the road from Glasgow to Portpatrick, who have heightened the rate of POSTING, from One Shilling to Fourteen Pence per mile, a scheme he has refused to go into, about three years ago; a similar plan is now falling upon to accomplish the same end, which he also has rejected, in order to keep down the rate of Posting to the common fare of One Shilling per mile.

W. D. therefore conceives it his duty to acquaint those who are pleased to countenance him with their favour, that he still continues to hire Post Chaises at the former rate of One Shilling per mile; and engages to forward travellers either to Glasgow or Portpatrick at that rate, on the shortest notice.

Next Post Chaises, good horses, and careful drivers may at all times be depended on, and every attention shown at the STAR, as usual. Ayr, July 20, 1799.

PRESERVATION OF GAME.
NOTICE is hereby given, that any person or persons who may be found shooting on the grounds of Lee or Carnwath in the county of Lanark, or Dryden in the county of Edinburgh, without written permission from the proprietor, will be prosecuted according to law. And the prevalent custom of breaking dogs on these grounds is likewise hereby prohibited.

PRESERVATION OF GAME.
MR MAULE of PANMURE, though exceedingly reluctant to prevent any of his Friends, or any Gentleman, from sporting on his Estates in the County of FORFAR, begs they will refrain from it for the ensuing season, as the GAME has suffered so much from the severity of last winter and spring that he finds it necessary to give it a Jubilee for the present.—Mr MAULE is persuaded no Gentleman will shoot or hunt upon these grounds after this intimation; and poachers may depend upon being prosecuted with the utmost severity, particular orders being given to the game-keepers and ground-officer for discovering and bringing to punishment all offenders.

N. B.—A handsome Reward will be given to any person giving information, so as to convict any poacher, by applying to John Spence, Esq. at Brechin.

GAME.
THE MARQUIS OF TWEDDALE hereby intimates, That he is determined this season to preserve his GAME on his Estates in East Lothian, Berwickshire, and Roxburghshire, and that all persons sporting thereon without his special authority will be prosecuted without distinction. The game-keepers and shepherds upon the different farms have all the strictest orders to stop every transgressor, and to inform instantly; and as during the course of last winter a number of persons, without taking out a game license or paying duty for their dogs, were in the constant practice of coursing on the grounds, and destroying the Game, this notice is given, that if they persist in such practice they will be informed against, and prosecuted in the most rigorous manner.

His Lordship will not grant liberty to any person to shoot partridges prior to the 1st of September, and he is resolved to prevent the hunting of hares after the 31st of February 1800.

FORFAR—JULY 3, 1799.
On Saturday the 20th of August,

THE FIELD called the ORCHARD-BANK, the property of John Low, tenant in Leckaway, consisting of about 27 acres, and divided into three inclosures, is to be sold, in one or more lots, as purchasers may incline, by public roup, within the Sheriff Court-house of Forfar, by three o'clock afternoon.

This field is situated a little to the north of the high public road leading from Edinburgh to Aberdeen, and is not above a quarter of a mile distant from the burgh of Forfar. Immediately to the north is the lake of Forfar; on the south and west side are rivulets of water, and moss for fuel. In point of local situation no land in the neighbourhood of Forfar is superior; it commands a pleasant prospect of the rich and beautiful valley of Strathmore. It is calculated either for a pleasant residence for any gentleman if he were to build upon it, or for leasing to manufacturers for the purpose of erecting houses, to whom, on account of the moss, water, stone, and slate quarries in its vicinity, it would be far more convenient than any part of the town of Forfar.

SALE OF LANDS IN ZETLAND.
To be SOLD by public roup, within the Town-house of Lerwick, on Wednesday the 14th day of August 1799, at twelve o'clock noon.

THE Twenty Merk Udal Lands of HASCASSEY, comprising the whole of the island of that name, (excepting four merk lands) with the pertinents, lying in the parish of Myddell, lordship of Zetland, and reftwary of Orkney and Zetland.

Hascassey, which is about two miles in length, and of various breadths, is one of the Zetland Islands, and is remarkably well situated for fishing, there being a safe anchorage for ships of any burden in the Sound of Hascassey, and a commodious beach on the island, well adapted to the drying and curing of fish. The shore likewise produces a considerable quantity of sea-ware, which yields about eight tons of kelp every third year.

For further particulars, apply to James Thomson, writer to the signet, North Castle Street Edinburgh or Henry Robt, writer in Lerwick.

A PARTNER WANTED.
A PERSON of middle age, who can immediately advance 1000l. wishes to take a share in spinning, Weaving, or Mercantile business, in either town or country.

The Advertiser would render himself useful, by close attention, or in an active part of the business, within or without doors.

Letters (post paid,) addressed to A. Z. at John Macfarquhar's, Esq. writer to the signet, New Town, Edinburgh, will be duly attended to.

INN AND FARM TO LET.

PORT SETON HOUSE IN EAST LOTHIAN TO LET.
To be LET, unfurnished, for four or more years as can be agreed upon, and entered to immediately.

THE said HOUSE of PORT-SETON, consisting of a large kitchen, with a water-pipe and scullery, housekeeper's room and lobby off the same, dining-room and drawing-room, with closets off both, four bed-rooms, and closets off the same, one of which is a bed-chamber, garrets fitted up with beds for servants, a large cellar fitted up with casks, milk-house, hen-house, washing-house, coach-house, and stable with hay-loft and byre—Also about 3 rods of ground round the house, well inclosed with stone and lime dyke. The tenant to pay all the taxes.

The house lies about nine miles from Edinburgh, about seven from Haddington, one from Tranent, and one from Prestonpans; from which last town a stage coach goes to Edinburgh, and returns every lawful day, and there are good markets in the immediate neighbourhood of the place.

The tenant may be accommodated with one or two grass parks contiguous to the house.

Also to be LET for four or more years.

THE HARBOUR-DUES of Port-Seton.

For further particulars apply to James Mitchell, factor to the Earl of Wemyss, at Haddington.

EMBAKMENT.
TO BE SOLD or ASSIGNED.

A LEASEHOLD RIGHT to the SANDS of BALDOON, GRANGE, &c. in the Bay of Wigton, (in North Britain) and of the LAND which may there be recovered from the sea by Embanking.

These Sands are of great extent, being about 4000 Scots acres, or 9000 English, and of so fertile a quality as to be used for manure to the adjacent lands; when converted into arable or meadow land, they cannot be valued at a lower rent than 3l. per acre. The extent that may be recovered will depend on the expense to be laid out: a very moderate expense may certainly gain some hundreds of acres; but a person with a sufficient capital to lay out a large sum, will have much superior advantages, and be able to acquire a property of immense value.

The nature of the right to be conveyed will be highly advantageous to the lessee, as he will not only have the advantage of recovering the currency of the sea, but also the right of the proprietor will be bound to pay him twenty-five years purchase on the value of all the land that may have been gained.

For further particulars application may be made to William Mure, factor for the Earl of Selkirk at Kirkcudbright, or to Robert Hill, W. S. Edinburgh.

The lands are in the immediate neighbourhood of coal and lime, and capable of great improvement, at a moderate distance from Kirkcaldy, Kinghorn, and other towns on the sea coast, where a ready market is found for the produce.

The farms in the county of Forfar will be shown by William Webster, baron-officer; and the farms in Fife by Thomas Barclay in Lochgelly. To be sold by public authority, upon Thursday the 29th day of August 1799, at four o'clock afternoon.

THE under-mentioned HERITABLE SUBJECTS, in the following Lots, viz.

I.—That Large DWELLING-HOUSE on the shore of Dunbar, lately occupied by Mrs. Fall, consisting of a dining-room, measuring about 12 feet in length, 18 feet in breadth, and 14 feet high in the ceiling; a drawing-room, about 26 feet in length, and same breadth and height as the dining-room; five bed-rooms; three closets, a large kitchen, larder, butler's parlour, cellars, and other conveniences, with a water-pipe within the house; together with a Dwelling-house on the west end thereof, consisting of a dining-room, two bed-rooms, and kitchen, and a large granary and cellars below the same, on the north side of the said dwelling-house first mentioned, with the Close before the same.

II.—That Large DWELLING-HOUSE of Three Storeys, lying at the shore of Dunbar, and presently occupied as an Inn by William Wilson, with the brewhouse and cellars at the west end thereof.

III.—That Large HOUSE adjoining the above, on the north end thereof, formerly occupied as a counting-house, now as a dwelling-house, with two floors of granaries above the same.

IV.—That Large CLOSE, lying at the Lammermuir of Dunbar, called THOMAS'S CLOSE, with seven red-herring houses, and a large granary thereon, and which herring houses will hang above 1000 barrels herring annually, and the herrings may be carried from the boats into the close, the same being bounded by the sea on the north side.

V.—That MAILING called ROCHEID'S BARN, lying near the shore of Dunbar, consisting of Four Storeys, with two kilns for making pale and porter malt, and well supplied with water by a pipe from the town's reservoir; being, upon the whole, the largest and most commodious mailing in the town of Dunbar, where a plentiful supply of excellent barley is always to be procured.

VI.—That Large GARDEN, lying in the suburbs of Dunbar, and presently possessed by Mr. Henry Otto.

The whole of the above subjects are well known, and situated in the best part of the town for carrying on an extensive business in the mercantile line, and particularly well adapted for corn merchants, malsters, and herring curers; and the dwelling-house in the first lot is an elegant and substantial building, and was lately painted and fitted up, so as to render it an eligible residence for a genteel family.

The title-deeds, which are clear, and articles of roup, are in the hands of Mr. Alexander Lawrie, writer in Dunbar, who will cause the subjects to be shown to intending purchasers, and also give such further information as may be wanted.

JUDICIAL SALE OF ESTATES IN ARGYLSHIRE.
THE LANDS of KILLEAN, and the following PARTS of the Estate of BROLOSS, in the island of Mull, and the Estates of DRIMMIN and KINLOCHALINE, in the District of Morvern, will be exposed to SALE by public roup, under the authority of the Court of Session, within the Parliament-house of Edinburgh, on Wednesday the 27th day of November 1799, between the hours of five and six afternoon.

The above Estates will be put up to sale in the Lots, and at the Upset Prices following, viz.

Lot I. The Lands of Ardchishnah Upset Price Sterling, 3209 5 8 12

Lot II. Formerly lot 3d, the lands of Kilfinichan, Kilmore, Ardvarnish, Draichro, and Ulva, with a yearly Feuduty of L. 12 13 4d Sterling, payable by Mr. McLean of Penncross, 3043 14 0

Lot III. Formerly lot 4th, the Lands of Ballinacraig, Ballinacraig, Tongue, Ballinacraig, Killumera, Mill and Miln Croft, and Lands of Ballinacraig, 3855 15 0 12

N. B. The above three lots, with a 4th lot already sold, comprise the whole Estate of BROLOSS, lying in the parish of Kilfinichan, and island of Mull.

IV. The Lands of KILLEAN, lying in the parish of Torosay, and island of Mull, 1618 11 10 12

V. The Lands of DRIMMIN, Achilanan, Drumby, and island of Ormsay, composing the Estate of DRIMMIN, lying in the parish of Morvern, 7305 18 4 12

VI. The Lands of Clonlaid, Strone, Muchrish, Ulladil, Dorriclean, Achorse, and Kinlochaline, with the Public House, Croft, and Salmon Fishings, 6576 2 2 12

VII. The Lands of Auchranich, Dugerry, Ullin, and Claggan, 6021 10 1 12

N. B. The last two lots comprise the Estate of KINLOCHALINE, lying in the parish of Morvern.

It is material to observe, that in fixing the above upset prices no separate value is put on the kelp shores of the Morven lands contained in lots 5th, 6th, and 7th, though these shores afford a considerable annual profit, and are not let to the tenants with the lands, neither is any separate value put on the woods in lots 6th and 7th, though these woods are proven to be worth 1420l. Sterling. There is an excellent Mansion-house, with suitable office-houses, and a spacious garden on the lands of Kilfinichan, which are not separately valued, and the Mansion-house of Drimmin, in lot 5th, is in the same situation.

There are promising appearances of coal, as well as of lead mines on the estate of Kinlochaline, which further contains inexhaustible quarries of lime stone and free stone. The advantages arising from the whole lands, from their lying chiefly on the sea coast, and from their being amply supplied with fish and game, will naturally occur to purchasers.

The whole lands hold feu of the Duke of Argyll, excepting the Lands of Killean and Ullin, which hold blench of Mr. Campbell of Comby. The teinds of the Morven lands are valued and exhausted. There are unexhausted teinds on the remaining Lands in Mull, (including the lot already sold,) amounting altogether to 5l. 7s. 1d. 5-12th Sterling, on which, as being Bishops teinds, no value is put. Since the judicial rental was taken, very considerable rises of rent have been got on some of the farms, even for one year's lease. The lease of the lands of Auchranich and others, composing Lot 7, is now set aside, and a very considerable rise of rent may be expected on a new lease.

Printed abstracts, containing full information of the rental, value, and other particulars, may be got from Kenneth McKenzie, writer to the signet, agent in the sale, who will show inventories of the title-deeds, which, with the articles of roup, may also be seen in the office of Mr. Bruce, deputy-clerk of Session. Persons wishing to view the lands, may apply to Mr. Ewan MacLachlan, at Landie, by Stronachan, the factor on the estate.

ESTATE OF CRAILING—ROXBURGHSHIRE.
THIS well-known, valuable, and compact ESTATE will be exposed to SALE by public roup (unless previously disposed of by private bargain), in John's Coffeehouse, Edinburgh, on Monday the 25th day of November, at six o'clock afternoon; if not then sold, it will afterwards be put up in lots. The present rent is 2177l. 3s. One of the principal farms is now out of lease, and two more will be so in 1800, on which a considerable rise of rent may undoubtedly be expected. The Estate consists of 2195 acres, and there is a very considerable quantity of valuable and thriving wood of various kinds, some of which, particularly near the house, is very old and large. The lands hold of the Crown, and are of sufficient valuation to afford twelve freehold qualifications; and being situated within three miles of Jedburgh and six of Kelso, possess great convenience for markets, &c. The great post-roads from Kelso to Jedburgh and Hawick run through the middle of the lands. A considerable part of the purchase money may remain in the hands of the purchaser.

For further particulars application may be made at the proprietor at Crailing House, by Jedburgh, or to Robert Trotter, Esq. writer to the signet, Edinburgh, in whose hands the title-deeds, rental, plan, and measurements may be seen. The gardener at Crailing House will show the lands and boundaries.

JULY 25.

Wednesday Mr Jackson, the Master of the Ville de Paris, arrived at the Admiralty Office with dispatches from Earl St Vincent, dated from Gibraltar, where his Lordship was in a bad state of health. On the 22d ult. Earl St Vincent sent a frigate to Lord Keith, then off Genoa, with advices that the French and Spanish fleets had left Carthage, and had failed westward. On the 2d inst. the combined fleets appeared off Gibraltar, and were endeavouring to work out of the Gut. They remained there until the 9th inst. when the dispatches came away. Lord Keith was expected every day; and it is thought, from the state of the winds, that the fleet could not have got out of the Mediterranean for several days after the officer was sent off with the account.

Capt. Burton, of the Haerlem, also arrived yesterday evening at the Admiralty, from Gibraltar. Our Portsmouth letter states him to have brought intelligence of Lord Keith having attacked with 34 ships, the rear of the enemy, whose force in this letter is made to consist of 58 ships, and that an action took place, which commenced at seven in the morning of the 8th inst. and continued with great fury at two o'clock in the afternoon, when the Haerlem could only see 28 of the enemy, several of which had lost their top masts.

We await with great anxiety, but no apprehension, intelligence of the result, which our readers will anticipate with as much confidence as we do.

The combined fleets, according to the account brought by Mr Jackson, consisted of 42, Lord Keith's force of 33, and of the line.

This morning a mail arrived from Lisbon, brought to Falmouth in eight days by the Walsingham packet. By it we received the following extract of a letter from Lisbon, dated

JULY 14, TWELVE O'CLOCK.

"A naval officer came in this morning at five o'clock express overland from Gibraltar, and by the General in Chief's orders, the Walsingham packet was dispatched immediately. The news this gentleman brings, is, that on the 6th the French and Spanish fleets were seen to the eastward of the rock, and the next morning, while on his road, he counted 42 sail of the line, and 12 frigates. Dispatches from Lord St Vincent and General O'Hara, dated the 7th, confirm this intelligence.

"The plan of the enemy is said to be, to take up some ships at Cadiz, others at Ferrol, and more at Rochefort, after which they go to Ireland.

"The Brazil fleet, 57 sail, arrived here safely last week, and a second fleet from Rio de Janeiro, about 100 sail, is now off the Bar; we have therefore no apprehensions upon their account."

Lord St Vincent is still at Gibraltar. His Majesty's ship M. rmaid, Capt. Oliver, arrived in the Tagus from Minorca on the 9th inst.

On the 13th, his Majesty's ships Druid and Dover, troop ships, arrived in the Tagus from Gibraltar.

On the 19th inst. the Walsingham packet passed a French privateer with a large brig in tow, in lat. 44-44 long. 10. 18.

The Walsingham failed from Lisbon on the 14th inst. and arrived at Falmouth on the 21st.

The combined fleets have troops on board. Passengers by the Walsingham are, Mr and Mrs Girkin, Mr Kallin, Mr Jackson, Mr McDonald, Mr Tudor, Mr Colvil, and Mr Poor.

Yesterday a Court of Directors was held at the East India House.

Mr Gilbert Ferguson was appointed surveyor of shipping, in the room of the late Mr Snodgrass; as was Mr William Gillet first assistant.

Colonel Hartley, who commands the Bombay army in the absence of General Stuart, who was ill, had, by the last accounts, passed the Ghauts, which lead into Tippoo's dominions.

On Saturday night a boat was seized at Gravesend, with 25 bales of goods smuggled from on board some of the homeward-bound ships. Each bale was estimated to contain articles to the value of 1000l.

Letters from Constantinople, dated 22d June 1799, state, that the first division of the Turkish fleet, which sailed from thence early in March, consisting of three ships of the line, three frigates, and some inferior vessels, reached Acre the 19th of May, just before the retreat of the enemy towards Jaffa. After that retreat, Sir Sidney Smith immediately proceeded with his squadron, and part of the Turkish ships laden with troops in order to storm Jaffa. The enemy fled from Acre with 7000 men.

Three French frigates from Alexandria had captured part of the Reilla taken by Sir Sidney before Acre. In this action Lieutenant Balfour was taken, and Captain Miller, of the Thebes, was unfortunately killed, with some part of the crew, from the accidental bursting of some bomb shells.

The agitation of the public mind at Paris, and the opposition of the two parties who seek to turn the Revolution of the 10th of June to their advantage, has increased: the factions are, however, far from acting with an equal degree of violence. The Directorial party has employed no other means than speeches and exhortations; and the Jacobins, by employing also the same means, have availed themselves of the most powerful lever in a Revolution—that of a popular assembly, abandoned to every description of passion and sedition. The speeches of Talot and of Lucien Buonaparte have for a moment retarded the rapid march of the Jacobins. They have sworn to maintain the Constitution of 1795; but the Girondists had sworn to maintain that of 1791, which they afterwards overthrew, and the Constitution of 1793 was in the same manner destroyed by those who had contributed to form it. The last oath of the Jacobins has stood in their way but for a moment, and they have broken out with new violence.

The object of the studied speech of Sieyes in the Champ de Mars, in which he repeatedly calls to the recollection of his hearers, and paints in the most glowing colours, the early days of the revolution, when the Orleans faction prevailed, was easily seen through, and has become the subject of the suspicions and of the invectives of the opposite party. Some English journals consider it as a sufficient reason for doubting the present hopes of the old Orleans faction, that it does not avow its plans; but it is absurd to suppose that it would make this avowal before it had secured the means of carrying those plans into effect. Victory is at present undecided, but it appears to us to incline to the side of the Jacobins.

The debates of the two Councils have, as has been, chiefly turned on the means of raising a loan of 100 millions by increasing the assessment of several taxes; on the accusation legally preferred against the four Directors, and on the measures to be adopted against the dilapidators.

PORTSMOUTH—July 24.

Arrived at Spithead, his Majesty's ships La Suffisante and Haerlem. The latter brings accounts, that coming down the Mediterranean from Naples, in company with the Centaur, they fell in with three frigates and two corvettes, which each fired a single shot, and surrendered. Their names are Alcelle, with a Rear-Admiral's flag, of 36 guns and 460 men; Juno, of 44 guns and 500 men; Courageux, of 44 guns and 500 men; two corvettes, of 16 guns each.

Two cutters were in sight, and the fleet within hearing when the above captures were made.

The next day they joined Lord Keith, who discovered the combined fleets, and sent the Penelope cutter to reconnoitre, who was attacked by a French brig, which she beat off, but a Spanish frigate coming down she was captured. Lord Keith attacked the rear of the enemy, consisting of 58 ships, the English only 34. The action commenced at seven in the morning, and at two o'clock continued with great fury. The Haerlem's officers could then see only 28 of the enemy, several of which had lost their top-masts. The action was fought on the 8th instant.

The Duke of Kent arrived here this morning, and was saluted by the garrison; as also by the fleet at Spithead, on his arriving on board the Arethusa frigate.

FALMOUTH—July 22.

Arrived the Walsingham packet, from Lisbon, in eight days. It is reported that the French and Spanish fleets are passed out of the Gut of Gibraltar.

TWELVE O'CLOCK AT NIGHT.

I have seen one of the passengers, who says the French and Spanish fleets had got out of the Gut, 46 sail together.

FRANCE.

SPEECH OF CITIZEN SIEYES

AT THE CELEBRATION OF THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE FOURTEENTH OF JULY.

"CITIZENS,
 "Ten years have now elapsed since that immortal epoch in which the representatives of the French people, braving all the efforts of tyranny, took a solemn oath to proclaim the rights and found the liberty of their country. This sublime signal was heard, and on the 14th of July fell for ever that ancient fortress, which was the odious pledge of our slavery, which the hereditary crimes of our kings, and the equally hereditary cowardice of their accomplices, seemed to have established on the most permanent basis.

"It was here, even here on this spot, rendered majestic by the presence of those freemen by whom it is this day filled, that there were then assembled those barbarian hordes of ferocious and sanguinary foreigners who insolently threatened this great city, and with it the new destiny of France. All these instruments of tyranny instantly disappeared on the first ebullition of your indignation and of your courage.

"It is pleasing to recall to our recollection the happy moments which followed this first victory. That tumult, those noisy songs, those lively agitations, those fraternal effusions which characterise a people who are surprised, but who are delighted at having broken their chains—Every thing then led Frenchmen with ardour towards the most desirable changes.

"Innumerable abuses were discovered and done away—Privileges were denounced and destroyed, and improvements of every kind, either made or projected. The foundation was then laid of an Hereditary Government, which being totally incompatible with hereditary power, soon destroyed Royalty, and established the Republic.

"In vain did the enemies of reformation interpose obstacle upon obstacle. Vain were efforts of feudal insolence, and the interests and habits of titled slaves. The renovating power was immense, because it was actuated by the public mind—Every thing that was generous and magnanimous was ranged on the side of liberty. Meanness and ignorance took refuge with the faction of slavery. The work of our regeneration was not completely effected—the Republic was not proclaimed; but it is a violation of truth to say, that our souls were then more republican than they are perhaps at present? I will not state the cause which at first disturbed our harmony, because it is necessary to avoid those considerations which are not calculated to re-establish it among us; but may I not at least observe, that at that period, jealous and perfidious foreigners had not had time to diffuse the poison of their fatal influence among us; but the dreadful effects of their intervention were soon perceived in the calamities which they produced.

"Their numerous emissaries interposed in our domestic discussions, and in our dearest interests. They succeeded in circulating and in accrediting those absurd maxims, that knowledge ought to give way to ignorance, wisdom to folly, and reflection to rashness—it seemed as if they would have obtained from our blind credulity, the means and almost the right of dictating their opinions to us, and of persuading us that they knew better than Frenchmen how Frenchmen ought to be free. Strange renunciation of our rights! Can we have forgotten those calamitous times, when, doubtless, by the same influence, all those who had served their country, or were in a condition to serve it, were outraged and persecuted; when regular authority was hated, merely because it was authority; when all notions were confounded to that degree, that those who were not officially charged with any duty, obstinately persisted in taking upon themselves the execution of every one; when those who could not obtain the confidence of the people, pretended that they had a right to speak in their name—when every one assumed the right of representing the nation to the exclusion of her real Representatives.

"How many calamities flowed from that source, and how many may still flow from it!

"Frenchmen, profit by the lessons of long experience; they have cost us dear enough—Surrounded as we are with imminent dangers, we have occasion for great republican energy. Let us recall that energy which animated us on the 14th July; but let us take care not to mix it with any foreign impulse. In the first, you will find all these sentiments which tend to concentrate our force and to unite us; and in the other, every thing which tends to disunite us. Frenchmen, put an end to these dissensions. Recollect that the enemy are at our gates, and that the first thing to be done is to repel them. Recollect, on the first anniversary of the day which we now celebrate, that ravishing enthusiasm which seemed to make but one soul among 100,000 Frenchmen; that sublime spectacle gave a promise of a people of heroes, and that hope was not unfounded. Let all the ardour of your desires, all the heat of your agitations be lost in one single object, one passion, that of conquering; let your answer be, "Such is our will." I can then say the victory is ours, the country is saved, and the Republic established for ever. Long live the Republic!

GENOA—June 29.

On the 6th (June 24.) an English squadron of about thirty vessels appeared within sight of our port, and sent in a flag of truce, with two letters from Vice-Admiral Lord Keith, one of which was addressed to the French Charge d'Affaires, and the other to our Government.

LONDON—July 26.

The Hamburg mail due on Wednesday has not arrived.

In addition to the large body of infantry now assembling for the expedition, it will be accompanied by 40 squadrons of cavalry, amounting in the whole to 6500 men, of which the 7th, 10th, 11th, and 15th regiments of light dragoons, are to form a part.

We have the pleasure to contradict the report which reached this country by the last mail, of the death of the brave Captain Miller, of the Thebes, off Acre. The naval officers recently arrived from the Mediterranean contradict the report, which they had also heard, but it had proved incorrect.

Government, we understand, are in possession of dispatches which state that the King of Naples had been safely conducted back to his dominions by Lord Nelson, and that he had re-ascended his throne amid the acclamations of his liberated people.

The Arethusa frigate, with the Duke of Kent on board, has failed from Portsmouth for Halifax.

The remainder of the East India fleet has arrived.

TALLEYRAND PRIGORD has published a defence of his conduct, in which he states this remarkable fact, "I am reproached," says he, "with not having sufficiently encouraged privateering against England; but if it had been encouraged without any bounds, with what vehemence would they not have inveighed against want of precaution, or stupidity of Ministers, who, after that 545 armed vessels for cruising had been captured by the enemy, from the beginning of the war to the end of the 6th year—that the number of prisoners taken in England amounts to more than 30,000, for which subsistence the Republic is at the yearly expence of 15 millions, and that it is principally to privateering such a result is to be attributed, might have dared to expose the nation to the repeated hazards of a game, the losses of which are so sensibly felt?"

RELEASE OF PRISONERS AT ALGIERS.

Extract of a letter from an Officer on board his Majesty's ship Argo, dated port Mahon, May 29, 1799.

We are just returned from Algiers, where we have been to negotiate with the Dey for a supply of fresh provisions for the army and navy at Minorca. Capt. Bowen was so much in favour with the Dey and Regency there, that he procured the freedom of six poor fellows, British subjects, who had been confined in slavery upwards of 14 years.

They are now on board, enjoying the blessings of true liberty, serving their King and Country, and have requested me to get their names inserted in some of the English newspapers, that their friends, if any living, may know they are now happy, and comfortably situated. Before we came away, the Dey as a further mark of his friendship for Captain Bowen, requested him to accept of a rich Turkish sabre, and two fine Arabian horses:—

Name.	Age.	Place where born.
George Hog	42	Pontefract, Yorkshire.
James Robinson	39	Lancaster.
John Reid	34	Kirkcaldy, Scotland.
John Foley	32	Dublin, Ireland.
James Little	35	Mullingar, ditto.
Raphael Starico	25	Gibraltar.

FALMOUTH—July 23.

The intelligence given you in yesterday's letter, as coming by the packet, was incorrect. The Spanish and French fleets were seen 6 leagues to the eastward of Gibraltar within, not on this side the Gut, the wind then strong to the S. W.; they were endeavouring to work out. The Minerva frigate was immediately dispatched with the intelligence to Lord Keith, then off Minorca, who was expected down hourly. Great hopes were entertained that he would arrive before they could work out, the passage being difficult.

LIVERPOOL—July 24.

By signals, the following vessels, part of the Jamaica fleet, are off, viz.

James, Lacade, Sarah, Rivers,
 Adroit, Campbell, Jamaica, Martin,
 Lord Duncan, Alkin, and two others.

It is hoped they are all very near; but the present low spring tides, and little wind, may keep them off a few days.

DOVER—July 25.

This afternoon arrived and failed for the Downs, the Jamaica fleet consisting of the Prince George, Bayley, Volunteer Greigg,

 Atlantic, Wilson, Equestria, Lindsay,
 William & Henry, Douall, Forster Barham, Spencer,
 Simon Taylor, Watts, Tulloch Castle, Wilson,
 Elizabeth, Ward, Jamaica, Marshall,
 Clarendon, Suffolk, Lacy,
 and about forty others.

Also, the Adamant, Renton, from Lisbon.

LLOYD'S MARINE LIST—July 26.

Tax Alcelle, 36 guns and 460 men; Juno, of 44 guns and 500 men; Courageux, of 44 guns and 500 men; and two corvettes of six guns each, are captured by Lord Keith's squadron in the Mediterranean.

The Margaret, from Greenock to Savannah, has been taken, and retaken by the Revolutionary frigate.

The Fortuna, Farmer, from the Current Islands to London, is taken and carried into Malaga.

The Camilla, Genhagan, from London to Gibraltar, is captured by the Spanish gun-boats.

The Fancy, Hooper, from Leghorn to London; and the Nelson, from Naples to London, are recaptured and arrived at Leghorn.

The Edwards, Wilson, and Mary, Leigh, from Liverpool to the West Indies, are lost on the Cobler's Rock, near Barbadoes.

YARMOUTH—July 25.

Yesterday arrived, to embark on board the packet for Carthage, a gentleman who came after them in a chaife and four. The report is, that he is an English Nobleman, but to avoid mistake, he shall be nameless at present. He was taken from the Duke's Head to the first Inn, and, with his servant, committed to jail. This circumstance has been the topic of the day here, but no real cause is assigned. This afternoon the prisoner, with the two gentlemen, set off in a chaife and four for Yarmouth, and his servant, who is a Swiss, in a post-chaife with one of our sergeants at mace.

EDINBURGH—JULY 29.

MEDITERRANEAN FLEETS.

After the various rumours which were in circulation by the London papers of Thursday, received here yesterday, it gives us great satisfaction to be able to state a few facts which upon the public may rely, and which may guide their opinion in regard to the real state of our affairs in the Mediterranean.

Captain Burton, who arrived on Wednesday evening at the Admiralty, is Commander of the Haarlem. This ship was the convoy to a fleet of merchantmen from Minorca, which Captain Burton saw safe into Gibraltar. He was dispatched from thence at three o'clock on the morning of the 8th instant; and about half past eight, he heard a heavy cannonade to windward, which lasted upwards of 11 hours. His orders being to make the best of his way to England, he could not wait to know the result.

About noon on the same day, part of the combined French and Spanish fleets, consisting of 27 sail of the line, were in sight to the eastward. On the preceding day the enemy's fleets had been reconnoitred, and 57 sail of ships were distinctly counted. It is conjectured they had separated during the night, and that it was only a division of these ships that was engaged with Sir Charles Cotton's Squadron, consisting of 14 sail of the line, or perhaps with that under Lord Nelson, consisting of 12 sail of the line, which are known to have been at no great distance. It is highly probable indeed that these squadrons might have joined previous to the action, as it is certain both had received information of the enemy's movements. Lord St Vincent's dispatches state, that he hoped by the 9th, all our ships would be assembled at Gibraltar. On the 11th none of the enemy's ships had passed the Straights; and as the wind blew strong to the westward, it would drive them towards ours.

The probability of an engagement having happened is further confirmed by Mr Jackson, master of the Ville de Paris, who, while sailing along the coast of Barbary, heard a cannonade from the same quarter as that which is reported by Captain Burton, but the noise lasted some hours longer.

A quarter of an hour before Captain Burton left Gibraltar, a Tartan arrived there, which reported, that there had been a very severe action between the two fleets, and that the English had taken seven sail of the line and one frigate.

The report of an engagement is moreover countenanced by the disposition of the 27 sail of the enemy's ships, seen by Captain Burton soon after he failed. He was chased by two men of war and one frigate, which might have come up with him; but, during the chase, they were called off by signal, and the whole fleet immediately bore away to the quarter from whence the cannonade proceeded.

It appears that the French actually landed 8000 men at Genoa, but on hearing of Macdonald's defeat, the whole were re-embarked, and are supposed to be on board their fleet. At the time of their disembarkation Lord Keith was only eight leagues from Genoa, but unfortunately ignorant of the French fleet being in that quarter.

Our nautical intelligence has become again very interesting. When the Brest fleet first failed, we were bewildered in conjecture as to their destination and object. The first we have now ascertained, but the latter remains still to be discovered. They have traversed the Mediterranean, but seemingly without having any object in view. The report that they carried troops from Toulon to Genoa and Leghorn, is not true. They certainly were, however, upon that coast, and without doing any one thing, they again returned to Toulon, where, according to the dispatches from Lord St Vincent, they were blocked up on the 1st of June. From thence, however, it appears, they effected their escape, and failed for Carthage, where they formed a junction with the Spanish fleet on the 22d ultimo, and now we have advice that the combined fleet failed from thence the 29th in order to get out of the Mediterranean; but their precise place of destination is not yet known, though Cadiz and Brest are both mentioned.

Thus the junction of the two fleets is the only object they have achieved, but we cannot suppose that to effect this the French fleet should determine to fail into the Mediterranean, and after a long voyage settle it so that Carthage should be the rendezvous for both fleets. We rather apprehend that it was at first intended they should join the Spanish fleet at Cadiz, but the preference of Lord Keith's Squadron, and the boisterous weather which prevailed, prevented this, and forced them through the Gut of Gibraltar, and thence they made their way for Toulon. Arrived there, it is probable orders would be sent to Cadiz for that fleet to fail for Carthage, in order to effect the junction which they had been disappointed of accomplishing at Cadiz.

Others, however, are of opinion, that they had some object in view on the shores of Italy, but the recent disasters of their armies rendered their projects nugatory.

As to their present object, various reports and conjectures are in circulation. One of these reports states, that the ships are full of troops destined for Ireland. But this is surely a mistake, as it is not likely they would send to the south of Spain or France to bring troops on an expedition to remote, when they could with greater facility ship them from the northern ports, so much nearer the place of destination.

Another report which seems better founded is, that which states they are destined for Brest, to be in readiness for opposing the armament presently fitting out in Britain, should an attempt be made to land on the French coast.

A few days must bring us very interesting intelligence. Earl St Vincent's health, we are concerned to hear, is so very bad as to occasion the most serious uneasiness and doubts of his recovery. His Lordship is on board the Argo man of war, now on her passage home.

The outward bound convoys have received orders not to fail till further orders; which we suppose will detain them until the destination of the French and Spanish fleets is fully ascertained.

The homeward bound Jamaica and Lisbon fleets are arrived, which relieves us from any anxiety as to them.

Lord DUNCAN has appointed a stout armed vessel to cruise constantly on the Aberdeen station for the protection of trade.

JOHN REID, who, after being 14 years in slavery at Algiers, has now with several others obtained his liberty, is a native of the parish of Kirkcubbin, seven miles west of this city. Many endeavours were made to obtain his release, and Mr Secretary DUNDAS also interested himself much to accomplish it; but the difficulty of intercourse with that state, and other circumstances defeated these laudable intentions. Some few years ago a new attempt was made, and upwards of 200 guineas were offered as his ransom; this too, however, proved ineffectual; and, to all appearance, he was doomed with his five companions to carry his shackles of slavery to the grave. The exertions of Captain Bowen in behalf of these unhappy men, bespeak the goodness of his heart, and fortunately his exertions have been successful. They are now all on board his ship the Argo, enjoying true liberty in his Majesty's service.

On Thursday morning, a boat loaded with herrings, overfired in the Clyde, opposite to Gourrock, and two men were drowned.

Upon the 8th inst. Mr. GEO. LAURIE, jun. late of Glasgow, was drowned in the Order, while he and some friends from Francfort were bathing.

Friday DUGALD GILLESPIE, a butcher, was found dead in the burn, at the back of the washing house in Glasgow Green. It is supposed, that being the worse of liquor, he had fallen in and was suffocated, as the water is only a few inches deep.

On the 23d inst. was pulled in the garden of Milncroft, Printfield, a strawberry which measured in circumference full five inches and a quarter.

On Monday last, MARY NICHOLSON, for poisoning her mistress at Little Staynton, was executed at Durham. From the time the sentence was pronounced she behaved with the utmost penitence and devotion. While she was suspended the rope broke and she fell to the ground. As soon as she recovered her senses she resumed her devotion with great earnestness, and continued praying fervently for near three quarters of an hour, till another rope was procured, when she was launched into eternity.

PROSPECT OF HARVEST.

A correspondent travelling in the southern counties of England, writes thus favourably of the state of the crops:

I have just arrived from the Isle of Wight, after taking a general survey of the principal part of it. I find the corn far better than I supposed. Wheat, that several farmers imagined must be ploughed in, or not produce more than feed, is so much altered for the better, that there will be seven and eight sacks to the acre; the barley is very heavy and thick on the ground, there is a good crop in general through the island. In the neighbourhood of Winchester, Southampton, Romsey, Stockbridge, and all parts of Hants and Wilts that I have travelled, the crops are extremely good, and the produce must be great. A farmer in the neighbourhood of Romsey, of the name of Edney, had a piece of wheat which was so very bad, that his friends advised him to plough it in, instead of which it has remained on the ground, and is so much improved, that a miller near him has offered to take it at six sacks to the acre. The alteration through the country that I have passed is beyond credibility."

THUNDER STORM.

On Tuesday last, there was a most awful thunder storm at York. Part of the Parsonage House of St Mary Bishophill, was shattered from top to bottom in a most extraordinary manner. The lightning, descending a chimney, spread in various directions, throwing down and bursting every thing in its course. The lead and glass of a window in an upper room were entirely forced out of the frame and destroyed. A large iron bolt was forced from its situation in a beam, and part of it has the appearance of having been red hot. Some glasses, china, and other articles in a closet adjoining the chimney were almost reduced to powder, and the closet door split, and forced to the opposite side of the room. Fortunately, no one of the family was injured. Part of a stack of chimneys in Mr Wollstonehouse's house in Gillygate was thrown down, and a stone of 28 lb. weight carried over the houses on the opposite side of the street. A house at Acomb was struck by the lightning, some chimneys were thrown down, and the roof untiled and damaged. The lightning descended a chimney into an apartment where a servant was cleaning knives, forced the board from him, and flattered a chair in the room. The man, however, in this perilous situation, very fortunately escaped unhurt.

MARRIED.

On Saturday the 27th instant, at Levenside House, the seat of the Hon. Lord Stonefield, HUMPHRY TRAFFORD CAMPBELL, Esq. advocate, of Ashnash in Argyleshire, to Miss WILLIAMS, daughter of the late John Williams, Esq. of Ruthin, Denbighshire.

At Orcharth, on Monday the 22d inst. Mr Wm. GILMOUR, merchant in Glasgow, to Miss JEANIE MILLER, daughter of John Miller, Esq. of Orcharth.

DIED.

At Culgoch, in the shire of Sutherland, on the 14th of July current, Captain WALTER GRAY, much and justly regretted, not only by his disconsolate family, but also by all his neighbours and acquaintances. It is hoped his friends and relations will accept of this as a sufficient notification of his death.

The following was inserted in part of Saturday's impression—we repeat it to-day for the information of all our readers:

EMBARGO ON SWEDISH VESSELS IN FRANCE.

Translation of a letter from E. SIGNERUS his Swedish Majesty's Consul General at Paris, to CLAES GRILL, Consul General in London, dated the 5th July.

"I hasten to advise you, that the Directory have decreed an embargo to be laid on all Swedish ships, who at present are or may hereafter arrive in the ports of France. I hope you will make such use of this advice, as you shall think the most proper for the interest of our commerce."

A copy of the above was received on Saturday by THOMAS STEWART, Esq. Vice-Consul at Leith.

LATE SECOND BATTALION FOURTH FENCIBLE REGIMENT.

The Non-commissioned Officers and Privates of this corps, who volunteered to serve in Ireland during the late invasion of that kingdom, will, on application to John Campbell, Esq. St James's Square, Edinburgh, or to David Dale, Esq. Glasgow, receive the silver medal promised them by their Colonel the Earl of Breadalbane.

TO THE PRINTER OF THE CALEDONIAN MERCURY.

I am again to obtrude myself on the public with an additional specimen of the poetry of the humble Bard of Kenleith, an account of whom you formerly published.

It must have been not a little gratifying to that poor man to have learned, that the verses which I formerly sent you, not only met with admiration from many of his countrymen of information and taste, but likewise found their way into several respectable London as well as country newspapers.—This last circumstance must have been more flattering to him, as their merit alone could have induced the English publishers to give them a place, notwithstanding the disadvantage under which they would labour with English readers, from being in the Scottish dialect.—I annex another poem of THOMSON'S, which I request you will be kind enough to insert. It was written several years ago, and the subject of it is the restrictions laid upon the killing of game, which at that time were much enforced.—It is in the form of a dialogue between a Muircock and a Crow, and the topic you will allow was a very natural one for such companions. I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

A FRIEND OF MERIT.

JAMES THOMSON, a common weaver in Kenleith, near Edinburgh.

As stories go, I heard them say,
How that a Crow the other day,
At home, was a' wae, a' wae, a' wae,
Just thought a wee bit o' gang,
To see the Muircock an' the Plover,
These chaps that win among the heather.
We're sic intention in his breast,
Awa flew the foreleggy beast,
An' beat the air wi' steady wing,
Till he came to a pleasant spring;
There he sat down upon the banks,
To rest his pinions and his shanks.
A Muircock was upon the height,
And seeing the crowing stranger light,
He flew awa' to him wi' haste,
And kindly thus the Crow addressed—
"Gude evening to you, Mr Crow,
"My friend—what's brought you here awa'?"
"The Crow then made a kind o' bow,
And said, "I came to spear for you."
"The best o' usage ye shall find,
"Sit down wi' me upon this brim,
"And gie me a' the news ye hear."
Then said the Crow, and shook his head,
"The news I hear are bad indeed,
"For there is not an honest man
"That has a ha'ping in the land,
"But wha is summat to be said,
"Before the court, 'tis what I hear."
"Oh wae a wae," then said the Crow,
"What ails them at the honest folk?"
"What is their crime?—what the suspicion?"
"Will it be treason or rebellion?"
"Or ha'e they us'd their better wrang?"
"Or private still ha'e made to gang?"
"What ha'e they done, O do ye ken?"
"They've humoured a' the honest men,"
Returned the Crow. "I ken fu' weel,
"Tis no for crimes like those I twel;
"I'll tell ye a' the hail affair,
"Indeed it's neither less nor mair,
"Than shooting you, an' whyles a hare.
"Truth, ye're weel aff by me, poor Crow."
"That's we protect by the law,
"An' has for friends the great folk a'."
The Crow said, "No, I mean ye tell,
"Ye're better aff than I'm yoursell."
"For since the commons were restricted,
"The bits o' herds are grown me wicked,
"That eager for our nests they range,
"An' break our eggs out o' revenge.
"Three years an' mair are come about,
"Sin' I brought up a single poult,
"An' as for your braw law makers,
"Themselves are first the same law breakers.
"In yonder brugh* are lawyer chields,
"That hunt for ever o'er their fields;
"Kills mae o' us, believe me, brither,
"Than a' the country folk together.
"O, if our lairds were worth their lugs,
"They wudna' suffer them, nor dogs
"To loup their dykes an' hedge's inclosures;
"An' mak' their tenants sickle logers;
"For nought these billics will regard,
"They'll gallop through a field o' braird;
"An' if a tenant to them gang,
"Say, Gentlemen, ye're in the wrang—
"They lo'e it him baith sour an' snell,
"An' may be damn his soul to hell.
"It wad ha'e better for them been,
"Had they o' mair first clear'd their een,
"Syne they might wi' a better grace,
"Ma'e glowr'd the tenants' i' the face."

The sun was now far down the west,
An' gloamin gray was comin' fast,
Up through the air the Crow did spout,
An' said, "good night, an' fare ye weel."
"O, fare ye weel," replied the Crow,
"I hope that you will soon come back."
"An' meet wi' me upon their braes,"
An' tell me how the process goes."

ROXBURGHSHIRE.

To be SOLD, by public voluntary roup, within John's Coffee-house, Edinburgh, on Wednesday the 4th of September, at one o'clock afternoon.

THE ESTATE OF GREENWELLS, including the lands of CHESTERHALL, and HAYFIELD, lying all contiguous within the parishes of Melrose and Borden, and county of Roxburgh.

The estate consists of about 900 English acres, of which upwards of 200 are arable; and there are 130 of excellent sheep pasture, and near 100 of very thriving plantation.

The whole has been several years in the hands of the proprietor, who improved it at a great expense: it is mostly inclosed with thriving hedges; has been lined, marled, and properly drained, and is in every respect in very high order.—There is a plantation of above seventy acres of Scotch fir, about 25 years old, and very thriving, and a belt of trees of various sorts carried round a considerable part of the estate besides which, there is a garden and orchard, and a good deal of ornamental planting in a glen, and round the house.

Greenwells is very desirably situated, only two miles from Melrose, and about ten from Jedburgh and Kelso, all good market towns, and a turnpike road from Edinburgh to Newcastle passes close by it.

A House fit for the accommodation of a gentleman's family is just built upon this estate, and very completely finished in every respect. The offices both for the accommodation of the farm and of a family, (including coach house and stables) are ample and convenient, and all built within these few years in a most substantial manner.

Greenwells is a very eligible residence for a sportsman, being in the midst of a famous fox-hunting country, and which abounds with all kinds of game; and the Plover, which is within a short walk, affords as fine rod-fishing as can be found in the island.

Persons wishing to be informed of further particulars, will apply to Robert Trotter, Esq. W. S. Edin. and David Murray, overseer at Greenwells will show the grounds and plans of the estate.

GOOD NEWS TO THE AFFLICTED.

MR LIGNUM, Reford, Nottinghamshire, Nov. 25, 1798.

MY grateful thanks are most certainly due to you, and are compelled, by gratitude, as well as by inclination, to pay you that tribute which is due to your great merit.—My wife, who has been long violently afflicted with a painful and disgusting Sciatic Eruption, which covered her face, and other parts of her body, her legs in particular were swelled to a truly alarming degree, attended with violent pain, so that we daily expected they would have broke into ulcers.—She has almost constantly been taking medicines in use for such complaints, but without any other effect than to injure her general health, as the daily grew worse, till, providentially, she was recommended to make a trial of your ANTISCORUTIC DRUGS, a 4s. 6d. bottle of which I purchased of Mr J. Taylor, bookseller, Reford, which afforded her great relief, and to her and my great satisfaction, and surprise of all those who knew her, by taking two more small bottles, she was, thank God, completely restored to perfect health, as well as from the unsightly appearance, which her complaint subjected her to.—It may be sufficient to say, that I will cheerfully answer any enquiries, at my own house, and give every satisfaction in my power.—The particulars of this singular case may also be known by applying to Mr J. Taylor, at above.

I am, Sir, with the greatest respect, yours, &c.
SAMUEL SPRENTALL,
Draper and Grocer, Reford.

Attested by JAMES TAYLOR, Bookseller.

VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTION FOR DEFENCE OF THE COUNTRY.

At a Meeting of the Committees at Edinburgh, for Superintending the Voluntary Contribution for defence of the Country, held this day,
The Right Honourable the LORD ADVOCATE in the Chair.

It was resolved to publish the following Notice:
As the Committee, by their resolution of 5th February 1798, recommended that the Contributions should be all paid on or before the first December last, and as they find that there are Contributions to a large amount still unaccounted for, they are under the necessity of again requesting that the Clergy, Gentry, and Magistrates who have conducted the Contributions in their respective Districts, will exert themselves to wind up the business, where that has not been already done, and transmit information of the result to Mr Francis Napier, W. S. Secretary to the Committee, under cover to William Kerr Esq. Post Office, Edinburgh. And in so far as these Contributions are not paid up, the Committee earnestly recommend that all the persons above mentioned will exert themselves to collect the same, and remit it forthwith, sending notice to Mr Napier, to whom and through what channel it is remitted.

Further, all Individuals and Corporate Bodies, who, themselves or their agents, have remitted their subscriptions directly to the Bank of England, will take the trouble of sending a note thereof to the Secretary as above.

The extent of these lands is about 262 acres, and they are possessed by four tenants, who pay 120l. of rent, under leases which expire at Whitsunday 1814. SALE OF LANDS IN ARGYLLSHIRE.
Upset Price L. 23,500 Sterling.

THE LANDS and ESTATE of KINGERLOCH will be SOLD by public roup, within the Royal Exchange Coffeehouse, on Wednesday 20th day of November next, at two o'clock afternoon.

This estate, which lies on the sea coast, is of very great extent, and is considered as a good pasture for sheep and black cattle, as any in the Highlands of Scotland. The Harbour of Lochorry, which affords a safe and commodious anchorage, abounds with fish of different kinds, particularly salmon; and the shores of the estate produce a considerable quantity of kelp annually. There is a good Mansion-house with a large lawn, capable at a very little expense of being made a residence, in point of beauty and convenience, inferior to none in that country. There is a great appearance of lead in several of the adjacent hills.

The present rent of the whole property is L. 904 Sterling, but when the leases, some of which have only two years to run, expire, a very considerable augmentation may be looked for, as from the offers made to the late proprietor, he was led to expect a rent of near L. 1200 Sterling.

THE ISLAND of CARNA, situated in Lochmaben, part of the above estate, presently yielding a rent of 63l. being detached, and a very great distance from the other lands, may be sold separately, should an offerer incline. This island is now out of lease, and a considerable rise of rent may be depended on. It is peculiarly adapted for wintering; the shores are very productive in kelp, and the wood if properly preserved, may be very valuable.

The whole Lands hold of the Crown, and afford a freehold qualification in the County.

The progress of writs, articles of roup and leases, may be seen in the hands of Mr Alexander Keay, accountant, Queen Street, or Hector Macdonald Buchanan, writer to the signet, who have powers to treat by private bargain, and to whom intending purchasers may apply for further information.

LANDS AND FREEHOLD QUALIFICATION IN FIFE FOR SALE.

ABOUT 138 Scots Acres of the Lands of CARTMORE, in the parish of Ballynry, with the House, Garden, Pigeon-house, and Offices, are to be Sold by private bargain; or to be held either of the Crown, or of a subject superior; and if agreeable to a purchaser, as much valued rent will be added as make up a Freehold Qualification.

There is a good deal of Planting upon the lands, which lie within two miles of the turnpike road from Queensferry to Perth; and there is plenty of Coal and Lime in the neighbourhood.

For particulars apply to John Syme, W. S.

LANDS AND COAL.
IN THE IMMEDIATE NEIGHBOURHOOD OF EDINBURGH.

To be SOLD (if not previously disposed of privately) by public roup and sale, within the Royal Exchange Coffeehouse, Edinburgh, upon Wednesday the 14th day of August 1799 years, betwixt the hours of one and three o'clock afternoon.

ALL and Whole the ESTATE and LANDS of DRUM, and others, with the Teinds and Pertinents, all lying in Edinburgh, and one of Dalkeith.

The estate comprises about 630 English acres. It lies compactly together, is well inclosed and subdivided, and abounds in game. The present rent of the estate, exclusive of the lawns, deer park, and other inclosures, with the Gardens and Planting around the House, is 1181l. 6s. 7d. Sterling. The yearly value of the Coal has not been accurately ascertained, but is estimated at 1200l. per annum.

From its situation, the estate is capable of great improvement; it lies between the two branches of the great road leading to Dalkeith and Lasswade, from its vicinity to which, and to Edinburgh, it commands an abundant supply of manure, and secures the best markets. Its vicinity to Edinburgh also renders the coal particularly valuable, the mean distance not exceeding four miles. There is a most excellent House upon the estate, recently repaired in a sumptuous manner, a new set of Stables, with stalls for fifteen horses, and Coach-houses for four carriages, and new Entrance Lodges have been built within these three years.

There are about 30 acres of fine old trees around the house, which, exclusive of their ornamental value, are estimated to be worth about five thousand pounds; and, upon the whole, whether for beauty or improvement, this is one of the most desirable estates ever offered to sale.

The whole estate, with the coal, will be sold by private agreement in one lot; or the Mansion-house, Office, Garden, and Planting, with the Inclosures around the house, comprising about 225 English acres, with the various scams of Coal, lying under them, will be sold by private agreement. And if no private bargain takes place, the lands and estate will be sold by public roup and sale as above mentioned, either in whole, or in the following lots:

LOT I. Comprising the MANSION HOUSE, OFFICE, GARDENS, and PLANTING, with Fourteen Inclosures surrounding the house, containing about 325 English acres. Under this lot there are numerous Edge Seams of Coal, and among others, there are six particularly valuable, viz. the Great, the Stairhead, Gillespie, Carlton, Corbie-craig, and Blue Coal Seams.—If this Lot shall be sold, then there will be exposed to sale,

LOT II. Comprising TWO INCLOSURES lying immediately to the north of lot 1st, consisting of 24 English acres. Under this lot there is also a valuable Seam of Coal, called the North Green, and a Lime Quarry let at 86l. per annum, included in the above rental.

If these two lots shall be sold, then there will be exposed to sale, in several lots, as may afterwards be determined upon, the whole of the estate lying to the south of lot 1st, running towards Dalkeith, with the valuable Seams of Coal called the Jewel and Diamond, of which there are under 20 acres of this part of the estate is supposed to be yet totally unworked; and it is calculated that this coal is in such a situation as to yield one clear fourth to the proprietor.

And, in one or more lots, the REMAINDER of the ESTATE, lying to the north of lot 2d, being that part of the estate which is nearest to Edinburgh, called the Fenside Farm.

For further particulars application can be made to Robert Dundas, writer to the signet, St. James's Square, Edinburgh, in whose hands the title deeds and engraved plan of the estate may be seen, and who will communicate the terms and conditions of sale, with the endurance of the leases, &c. to intending purchasers.

There is also an engraved plan of the estate in the hands of Charles Fozard at the Drum, to whom intending purchasers may likewise apply for copies and further particulars relative to the different Lots, and by whom, all letters, post paid, will be punctually answered.

SALE OF LANDS AND PATRONAGES
In the Counties of Nairn and Inverness.

To be SOLD by Public Voluntary Roup, within the Royal Exchange Coffeehouse, Edinburgh, on the 20th day of November next, between the hours of two and three in the afternoon,

THE LANDS and ESTATE of GEDDES, commonly called Easter Geddes, lying within the parish and county of Nairn.

These lands are pleasantly situated on the banks of the river Nairn, and command a delightful prospect of the Moray Frith, and the opposite coast of Ross and Cromarty. They lie within three miles of the Royal Burgh of Nairn, where there is a good weekly market remarkably well supplied with fish and provisions of all kinds, on most reasonable terms.

The lands of Geddes are presently rented at about 220l. Ster. but on the expiry of the present leases they will rise nearly double. One of the principal farms is presently let on a lease of two lives, and as both the tenants are upwards of 70 years of age, access will be had to it in all probability within a few years, and double rent has already been offered for that possession.

The lands are well known to be of a rich fertile quality, and capable of producing every kind of grain. There is a young thriving Plantation on the property, upon which no value is put, and it has a right in common to some extensive moors, which on a division might be planted or turned into pasture, with much advantage to the proprietor.

The public burdens affecting this property are comparatively small, and as the teinds are valued and the stipend of the parish lately augmented, any future augmentation will affect the proprietor of Geddes in a trifling degree.
